

The dimension of an object is informally the number of coordinates needed to specify a point on the object.