Definition: Codomain

The set into which all of the outputs of a given function are constrained to fall